HISTORICAL.

At a special meeting of the Physicians of Lowell, held March 8, 1839, the same being subsequent to a succession of meetings, it was voted to form the Lowell Medical Association, and on March 26, 1839, a series of Rules and Regulations, together with a Code of Medical Police, were adopted.

At the stated meeting of the Councillors of the Massachusetts Medical Society, held in Boston, May 30, 1844, "Dr. John C. Dalton, of Lowell, presented the request of a Committee of members of the Massachusetts Medical Society, resident in the northerly section of the County of Middlesex, that the Councillors would issue a charter for the establishment of a District Medical Society." "This subject was referred to a Committee, consisting of Drs. Dalton and Green of Lowell, and Howe, of Billerica." At the next stated meeting of the Councillors, held October 2, 1844, the favorable report presented by the above named Special Committee was adopted, and it was voted: "That a charter be granted for a District Medical Society, in conformity with the above report."

At a meeting held in Lowell, November 2, 1844, and attended by the Physicians of the following-named places: Lowell, Billerica, Ashby, Townsend, Pepperell,

Dunstable, Groton, Shirley, Tyngsborough, Chelmsford, Carlisle, Littleton, Dracut, Tewksbury, Concord and Acton, it was voted, "That a charter be accepted from the State Society for the organization of a District Society"; it was also voted, "That the Physicians included in the several towns heretofore specified, organize and form themselves into a District Society."

At an adjourned meeting, held November 16, 1844, it was voted "That the Society be called the Middlesex District Medical Society," and the following officers were elected by ballot :

President : Nehemiah Cutter, of Pepperell.

Vice-President : Elisha Huntington, of Lowell.

Secretary : John D. Pillsbury, of Lowell.

Treasurer : Jeremiah P. Jewett, of Lowell.

Librarian : Isaac W. Scribner, of Lowell.

Standing Committee : Augustus Pierce, of Tyngsborough, Elisha Huntington, of Lowell, Harlin Pillsbury, of Lowell.

The first annual meeting was held May 21, 1845, and all the officers were re-elected, excepting that on the Standing Committee, the name of David Wells, of Lowell, was substituted for that of Augustus Pierce, deceased. At this meeting Councillors were chosen as follows :

John C. Dalton, of Lowell.

Nehemiah Cutter, of Pepperell.

Elisha Huntington, of Lowell.

Zadoc Howe, of Billerica.

Harlin Pillsbury, of Lowell.

Daniel Mowe, of Lowell.

Peleg Bradley, of Dracut.

At a meeting of the Councillors of the Massachusetts Medical Society, held in Boston, October 2, 1850, "Dr. Reynolds presented the report of the Committee on Districting the State." According to this report "Middlesex County was divided into three Districts, namely :

Middlesex East, consisting of the following towns: Woburn, Winchester, Stoneham, Melrose, South Reading, Reading, Wilmington and Burlington.

Middlesex North, comprising all the towns formerly included, with the exception of the above named towns, and likewise Stow and Concord.

Middlesex South, consisting of Stow and Concord, and all towns not included in the other Districts." It was also "voted, that the above Districts be established."

At a regular meeting of the Middlesex North District Medical Society, held in Lowell, January 29, 1851, the following were chosen as Censors :

Elisha Huntington, of Lowell.

John C. Bartlett, of Chelmsford.

David Wells, of Lowell.

Amos B. Bancroft, of Groton.

Nathan Allen, of Lowell.

CODE OF ETHICS
OF THE
MASSACHUSETTS MEDICAL SOCIETY.

Adopted by the Councillors, Feb. 4, 1880.

OBJECT OF A CODE OF ETHICS.

The Massachusetts Medical Society is designed to secure to the public a body of well educated and otherwise trustworthy physicians. Its code of ethics is intended to furnish certain principles and rules of action for their guidance and convenience.

ARTICLE I.

THE RELATION OF THE PHYSICIAN TO MEDICAL SCIENCE.

A physician should lend his influence to encourage sound medical education, and to uphold in the community correct views of the powers and the limitations of medical science and art.

ARTICLE II.

THE RELATION OF THE PHYSICIAN TO MEDICAL BUSINESS.

The professional success of a practitioner depends upon qualities connected with his moral character, his scientific attainments, and also his industry and business talent. But the relation of practitioners of medicine to families and households is not like that of tradesmen to their customers. The kind of competition which might be considered honorable in business cannot exist between physicians without diminishing their usefulness and lowering the standing of the medical profession. (See IV. § 1; V. § 1.)

ARTICLE III.

THE RELATION OF THE PHYSICIAN TO HIS PATIENTS.

The first duty of the practising physician is to his patient, who has a right to expect that his disease shall be thoroughly investigated and skilfully treated, with charitable consideration for his mental peculiarities or infirmities, and in a relation strictly confidential.

1. The physician should not make unnecessary visits. He should neither permit needless apprehension, nor fail to give seasonable notice of danger.

ARTICLE IV.

THE RELATION OF THE PHYSICIAN TO OTHER PRACTITIONERS AND TO THEIR PATIENTS.

In his relations with another medical practitioner and his patients, a physician should be governed by strict rules of honor and courtesy. His conduct should be such as, if universally imitated, would insure the mutual confidence of all medical practitioners.

The foregoing rule should be a sufficient guide of action. Some of the following contingencies will illustrate its application:—

1. A physician should take no step with a view directly or indirectly to divert to himself the patient or practice of another physician.

2. If formally requested to assume charge of a patient or family usually attended by another physician, he should consent to do so only after notifying the latter—unless the case be one of pressing necessity.

3. If a physician is called to a patient during the temporary absence or illness of the usual physician, or in case of accident or other emergency, he should direct that the former be sent for as soon as he is able to take charge of the case, and should then relinquish it to him. It is generally agreed, that, among several physicians thus called he who first arrives shall act, unless the family designate another.

4. A communication from the temporary to the usual physician, in the absence of the latter, should be written and sealed, and not simply verbal.

ARTICLE V.

THE RELATIONS OF THE PHYSICIAN TO QUACKERY.

In every community there are minds naturally inclined to quackery, which has flourished in every age. It grows by being noticed, and thrives best under opposition. It is commonly unwise to employ argument against it. But a physician should lend his influence to establish a distinct line between the regular practice of medicine and the practice of quackery, and should avoid any act which might tend to weaken such a distinction either in the professional or in the public mind.

1. Thus, he should not consult with an irregular practitioner (see By-Laws); nor countenance the use of secret remedies; nor be interested in medical trade-marked preparations; nor give certificates recommending mineral waters, patents, or medical preparations, or the like; nor give a commission to an apothecary, nor receive one from him; nor advertise himself or his practice in public print; nor publicly advertise advice or medicines to the poor, etc.

ARTICLE VI.

CONSULTATIONS.

Consultation should be encouraged in cases of unusual responsibility or doubt.

A consultation is called for the benefit of the patient, and to give him the advantage of collective skill. Should there be a difference of opinion, discussion should be temperate, and always confidential.

A consulting physician should be careful to say or do nothing to impair the confidence of the patient or his family in the attending physician.

1. See, for guidance of a consultant, IV. § § 1, 2, 3, 4.
2. At a consultation punctuality is important; and non-arrival within fifteen minutes after the appointed time should be interpreted as non-attendance.
3. For the advantage of the patient, and for economy of time, it is well in a consultation to observe a certain order of business. The following has been found convenient:—

The attending physician, having stated in general terms the nature of the case, may then call, in turn, upon each consultant, if there be more than one to examine the patient—the usual order being that of seniority. No consultant should make an examination or inquiry out of turn. On retiring, the attending physician may invite, in the usual order, the opinion of each consultant, who should not be interrupted while giving it; after which he may add his own. In conclusion a course of action may be agreed on, or the attending physician may be left to act at his own discretion.

ARTICLE VII.

FEEs.

A fee-table has a local application, and is designed to indicate a fair or average amount due for services. But if the patient fully understands it beforehand, a physician is at liberty to place any value he sees fit upon his services. It is then at the patient's option to decline them or to pay the price. A physician should be considerate of the poor.

1. A patient in moderate circumstances should not be called on to pay a fee unusually large for the service rendered, without a previous explicit understanding. A physician, if able, should offer to pay the medical attendant of himself or his family. Unless by special agreement, a physician attending or acting for another should receive the fees. Among obstetricians a rule obtains that the interval between the birth of the child and of the placenta halves the service and the fee. A fee should be charged for a medical certificate or paper of value to the applicant—connected, for example, with absence or exemption, life insurance, pension papers, etc., except the usual certificates of vaccination and death.

ARTICLE VIII.

SENIORITY.

Seniority applies rather to duration of practice at the place in question, than to age.
